Firing Of First U.S. Satellite Set Today

Technicians Iron Out Bugs In Vanguard

Rocket Carries Six-Inch "Moon" With Radio Voice

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla., Dec. 3 (P)—Scientists tonight ordered a further one hour delay to 12 noon in the zero hour set for the first attempt to fling an American "moon" into space.

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla., Dec. 3 (P)—The zero hour for the first attempt to hurl an American "moon" into space was set tonight for 11 a. m. (EST) tomorrow. There was a chance the firing might be delayed until a later hour.

Herschel Schooley, director of information services for the Defense Department, told newsmen the start of the countdown had been set for 9 p. m., then put off until midnight. The period of the countdown is 11 hours.

Originally, the Navy had said it hoped to fire its satellite-carrying Vanguard rocket about an hour before dawn.

Technicians apparently had solved difficulties which cropped up in yesterday's work, preparing the Vanguard for the shooting.

Few Bugs Ironed Out
"There were a few bugs in the rocket," said a high level source from the Office of Naval Research, "but I think we've ironed them out. It looks like we will be ready to blast off tomorrow."

If the firing is successful, the United States will have met Nikita Khrushchev's challenge to the free world to join Russia in forming a "commonwealth of Sputniks" in the heavens.

The 22,000-pound Vanguard stood tall on its launching platform tonight, pointing skyward and ready for the first thrust of its powerful engines, designed to propel it 300 miles upward to the cold and mysterious frontier of space.

In its bullet-shaped nose cone nestled a six-inch satellite with a radio voice which the Navy hopes to put into orbit at a speed of 18,000 miles an hour.

Sputniks Now Silent
If the shooting comes off as planned, the beeping voice of the tiny American moon will be the only one coming from space. The two Red satellites now are silent, their batteries dead.

Whether the shot is a success or failure will not be known here immediately. The first announcement will be made by the Defense Department in Washington, probably about two hours after the firing.

J. Paul Walsh, general manager of the Vanguard's operations group, told newsmen during a briefing today that, "You won't know and we won't know (whether our moon goes into orbit). It will be up to our tracking stations to determine that."

Walsh explained that the tracking stations will report to the Navy research office in Washington.

Girard Reduced To Rank Of Private

TOKYO, Dec. 4 (Wednesday) (INS)—The Army today reduced William S. Girard to the rank of private because of his conviction of manslaughter charges by a Japanese court.

An Army spokesman said the reduction in rank from specialist third class was ordered "in accordance with Army regulations."

The regulations provide for such demotions when a foreign court sentences a convicted American serviceman to a term of more than six months. Girard received a three-year suspended sentence.

Meany Rejects Plan For Wage Boost Freeze

ATLANTIC CITY, Dec. 3 (P)—AFL-CIO President George Meany today knocked down any notion that labor will accept a 1958 freeze on wage increases to help combat inflation.

Meany said all economic indicators point to a downturn and a leveling off of inflationary forces and it was now more important than ever to boost wages to help create more buying support for production.

The AFL-CIO boss answered a plan voiced yesterday by President Richard Gray of the AFL-CIO Building and Construction Trade Department. Gray called for foregoing 1958 wage boosts, for relaxed credit policies and more government money aid to spur construction activities.

Meany spoke before the same building trades audience which had heard Gray.

He said that if relaxing credit and increasing government expenditures are needed to buoy the economy, then more mass purchasing power brought about by higher wages is also necessary.

Secretary of Labor Mitchell, between two speeches to AFL-CIO groups, told reporters Gray's 1958 wage moratorium plan was worth serious consideration. Mitchell pointed to President Eisenhower's call for moderation in wages and prices.

Meany mildly chided Gray, his fellow labor official, by saying he seemed to think along the lines of President Philip Talbot of the U.S. Chamber of Commerce. Meany said Talbot in speeches has been blaming inflation on high wages.

Firing Sites, Not Bases

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3 (P)—Rep. James Van Zandt (R-Pa.) said today the United States will seek firing sites in Europe for American missiles, but will not establish any great bases.

Hurricane Medical Hero Named "Doctor Of Year"

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 3 (P)—The medical hero of two gruelling sleepless nights on Hurricane Audrey duty also went sleepless on the eve of the killer storm—delivering three babies.

This was related matter-of-factly today by Dr. Cecil W. Clark, 37, of Cameron, La., who was the only physician in that little town when Audrey struck last June 27, killing more than 500 people in Cameron Parish, most of them in the town itself.

The quiet-spoken country doctor talked to newsmen shortly after he was named "General Practitioner of the Year" by the American Medical Assn. for his service in tending hundreds of victims of shock, exposure, snake bite or other injury during and after the disaster.

By a tragic twist of irony, to which Clark did not refer at the news conference, the three babies he delivered some 24 hours or so before Audrey struck just equalled

Demo Leader Turns Down Ike Invitation

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3 (P)—President Eisenhower today invited Adlai Stevenson to attend the NATO summit meeting in Paris. Stevenson declined because he would have no real authority there.

Stevenson disclosed that while he agrees with most of the administration proposals to be unveiled at the Dec. 16 conferences, "there are differences between us."

In an interview following up a public statement, Stevenson emphasized that the deciding factor in his decision was that, in Paris, he would be simply a consultant "without authority" to influence policies with which he would be identified.

Adlai's Reasoning
His statement, issued some eight hours after he received a personal invitation from Eisenhower, set forth his reasoning in these words:

"I would be without authority and necessarily identified with decisions I might not always agree with and could not publicly oppose. I do not wish thereby to inhibit or mislead my friends here or abroad."

He said that "unless there are compelling developments I will not attend the Paris meeting."

Stevenson's statement confirmed speculation that he has some misgivings about the scope and practicability of some of the proposals he has studied so far as the State Department's Democratic consultant on NATO affairs.

Sources close to him said he was particularly dissatisfied with what they called lack of imagination in economic aid proposals.

Stevenson emphasized to a reporter that the question of authority was the big factor in his decision.

He said he saw no way it could be solved. And he seemed a little irritated at all the commotion over the question of whether he would or would not go to Paris.

Medical Bulletins On Ike's Health Are Discontinued

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3 (P)—The White House discontinued President Eisenhower's medical bulletins tonight, saying it could be assumed he's getting along fine unless there is word to the contrary.

The President suffered a mild stroke a week ago yesterday but has begun to pick up some of his work load again.

The last bulletin on his condition, issued at 8:30 a. m. today by Maj. Gen. Howard M. Snyder, his personal physician, said: "The President had another good night's sleep. His progress continues to be excellent. He was in his office at 8:15 a. m."

Asked whether discontinuance of the bulletins could be interpreted as meaning Eisenhower is now fully recovered from his seizure, James C. Hagerty, White House press secretary, said no such interpretation is warranted.

It simply means, he added, that it can be assumed from now on the President is getting along fine unless there is some word to the contrary.

The number of his own children who were killed in the storm.

"Three of Dr. Clark's five children were swept away from their home by a mountainous tidal wave while their mother watched in horror," said the AMA, in announcing the award to Clark at the association's 11th clinical meeting.

And the association said that much of Clark's effort in tending to hurricane victims "was expended during a period when he was under the impression that his wife and all five children had been killed. . . It was not until 24 hours after the storm abated that he heard Mrs. Clark and two of the children had been rescued."

Reed Resigns From Rights Commission

Post 'Incompatible With Obligations' As Retired Justice

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3 (P)—Stanley F. Reed resigned today from the new Civil Rights Commission he was to head, saying the position would be incompatible with his obligations as a retired Supreme Court justice.

Reed's resignation was accepted promptly by President Eisenhower.

Eisenhower's appointment of Reed on Nov. 7 drew a generally favorable initial reaction from members of the Senate, which will pass on the nominees to the six-member bipartisan commission.

Could Be Called To Bench
However, there later was speculation that the selection of Reed might raise some opposition because, as a former high court justice, he still is available for duty on other federal benches and recently served in such a capacity.

In such an event, he might be called upon to give a judicial opinion in a civil rights case.

The 72-year-old jurist sent Eisenhower a handwritten letter, dated yesterday, saying he must withdraw from the commission "with regret that I have added to your burden by my former acceptance. . . Reed explained his position in these words:

"When I recently indicated to you my willingness to serve on this commission I permitted my desire to be of use in the orderly adjustment of civil rights matters to blind me to the weightier harmful effects of possible lowering of respect for the impartiality of the federal judiciary."

Assignment "Incompatible"
He said that to accept an executive branch assignment which would involve policymaking through investigation and through appraisal of federal civil rights laws "now seems to be incompatible with my obligations as a judge."

In a reply, dated today, Eisenhower said that "under the circumstances I must respect the reasons you give for being unable to serve as a member of the commission."

U.S. Supports France In U.N. Algeria Debate

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y., Dec. 3 (P)—The United States threw its support to France today in the U.N. debate on how to end the three-year-old rebellion in Algeria.

U.S. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge told the 82-nation U.N. Political Committee that the United States believes France should have "further opportunity to foster political evolution toward the common objective of stability and peace in Algeria."

He said this should be done in a way "which will satisfy the aspirations of all the people of Algeria."

Lodge spoke after Soviet Delegate Arkady A. Sobolev in a generally mild speech called for a solution of the Algerian problem in a manner that would be both in the interests of the Algerians and the French. But Sobolev made clear the Soviet Union supported the claim of Algerian nationalists to independence, and that it regarded the French measures in North Africa as "military colonialism."

Official Of NAACP Fined At Little Rock

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Dec. 3 (P)—Mrs. L. C. Bates, state president of the National Assn. for the Advancement of Colored People, was fined $100 by Municipal Judge Harry C. Robinson today on a charge of violating a city ordinance requiring disclosure of NAACP records. She appealed to circuit court.

The recently passed ordinance calls for certain organizations to file membership and financial information on official demand.

The law also has been used here against other organizations, including three composed of racial segregationists. The other groups filed the reports.

Hammaraskjold Launches Talks With Israelis

JERUSALEM, Dec. 3 (P)—U.N. Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold conferred with Israeli Premier David Ben-Gurion and Foreign Minister Golda Meir today on the second stage of a peace mission that apparently encountered roadblocks in Jordan.

A communique said discussions extended over the main current problems affecting the Israel-Jordan armistice situation and further talks would be held tomorrow.

The U.N. secretary general flew in from Amman, the Jordan capital, in a U.N. plane and landed at Jordan's Kalandia Airport north of the old walled city of Jerusalem.

Skirting Mt. Scopus, the hill which is the focal point of shooting threats between Jordan and Israel, Hammarskjold entered Israel through Jerusalem's Mandelbaum Gate.

He crossed Jerusalem to Mt. Mukabbir in the no-man's land just south of the city, scene of a tree-planting dispute between the two nations. Jordan contends the planting shows Israel intends to take over the demilitarized area in violation of the 1949 armistice.

U.N. truce supervision headquarters is on the hill. There Hammarskjold talked with U.S. Marine Col. Byron Leary, acting chief of the truce organization, who is the personal storm center of another Jordan-Israeli quarrel.

Jordan has accused Leary of bias in his handling of the Mt. Scopus and other issues and has asked Hammarskjold to sack him. Hammarskjold has replied with an expression of confidence in the Marine colonel, but came to the Middle East to hear the case.

Mt. Scopus, a low-lying but strategic mound only 900 by 400 feet in area, was left in Israeli hands by the armistice though it is a mile inside Jordan-held territory. The inoperative Hadassah Hospital, Hebrew University and a 500,000-volume library are there in charge of an Israeli caretaker force.

The dispute centers on a 490-gallon drum of gasoline Israel tried to send in a supply convoy to the caretaker force on Nov. 22. The Jordanians stopped the convoy, saying the gasoline was for a compressor being used to fortify Mt. Scopus in violation of the armistice.

Two Brothers Perish In Glen Burnie Fire

GLEN BURNIE, Md., Dec. 3 (P)—Two brothers burned to death when fire swept through the attic of their home in the Glenwood Housing Development near here today.

John Lerch, 4, was pronounced dead at South Baltimore General Hospital. His 2-year-old brother, Thomas, was found dead at the scene.

Firemen were unable to find any cause for the blaze that started as the children's mother, Mrs. Margaret Lerch, sat in the kitchen of the house with two other women.

McKeldin Might Ask 37 Million In New Revenue

BALTIMORE, Dec. 3 (P)—Gov. McKeldin said today his budget proposal next February may call for as much as 37 million dollars in new revenue.

The governor's first public comment on the probably scope of the fiscal problem faced by the State was made in a "State of the State" address before a downtown Rotary club.

McKeldin omitted specific reference to which tax sources he will draw upon to make up the expected deficit.

He said the current budget was balanced with the help of a surplus of almost 17 million dollars and said there would be "no such comfortable cushion on which to lean in balancing the budget for fiscal 1959."

In addition, McKeldin estimated there may be a budget increase which may run as high as 20 million dollars.

Chances Of '58 Tax Cut Vanish

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3 (P)—House leaders generally agreed today that chances of 1958 tax cuts have practically vanished.

Tax bills originate in the House. Leaders in that chamber had hoped for a sizable reduction but that was before Russia's advances in satellites and missiles led to new emphasis on U.S. defense spending.

Speaker Sam Rayburn (D-Tex.) and House GOP Leader Martin (Mass.) said today they would support the appropriation of every dollar necessary for national defense and security.

Rayburn said the United States must do everything possible to catch up and go ahead of Russia in missiles.

Martin said the opportunity to cut spending in other fields "will be very limited."

The chairman of the House Appropriation Committee, Rep. Cannon (D-Mo.), agreed that heavy defense spending next year would rule out tax cuts.

Seven Believed Dead, Six Hurt In Factory Fire

MARTINS FERRY, Ohio, Dec. 3 (P)—Seven persons were feared dead and six others injured today when a small explosion touched off a fire at the Porter Glass Co. here, destroying the plant and an adjacent home.

Six women and one man, employees of the plant, were reported missing and believed dead. Three bodies have been uncovered in the wreckage, but they have not been identified.

Missing are: Miss Francis Good, Bellaire, Ohio; Miss Ruth Burch; Miss Goldie Gibbons, Yorkville, Ohio; Mrs. Rose McMahon; Hazel Stocia; Mrs. Mary Jane Byard, Martins Ferry, and Matthew McElroy.

Six were injured and taken to Martins Ferry Hospital where they were all reported in "good" condition. They include:

David Cuddihy, 19, of Martins Ferry, burns around the eyes and face; Thomas Longwell, 22, lacerations on the arm and a possible fractured arm; James Taylor, burns on the face, eyes and hands; A. H. Porter, owner of the company, of Wheeling, W. Va., smoke inhalation and face burns; Gilbert Stauffer, 43, of Bellaire, smoke inhalation and face burns; and a child, 4-year-old Thomas Smith, face and hand burns.

Firemen said they believed the fire started on the first floor of the 75-year-old, two-story frame building, when an oil stove was knocked over about 3 p. m.

They said the fire engulfed the building in a matter of minutes. The building originally housed an automobile body shop and firemen said the grease which had saturated the floors helped the fire spread so rapidly. Paint also was stored in the building, which was used as a glass cutting factory for the plant.

France Orders New Price Hikes In Inflation Battle

PARIS, Dec. 3 (P)—The French government opened its battle against inflation today, ordering broad price increases and setting up a powerful economic watchdog committee of three.

The decisions, which the government calls "Operation Truth," were taken at a Cabinet meeting. The price order is intended to adjust certain artificial prices after last August's partial devaluation of the franc.

Finance Minister Pierre Pflimlin described the operation as a most important government action to fight inflation and reestablish necessary stability.

But its far-reaching effects hit the average Frenchman where he felt it worst—square in the pocketbook. Before the end of this week he is likely to be paying more on such typical nonluxury items as:

Bread — an average of four francs a kilogram — the franc is worth a little less than 1 cent; newspapers—a five-franc increase to 20 francs per copy; electricity—up 4 per cent; domestic gas—up 2 to 8 per cent; rail fares—up 9 per cent second class, 15 per cent first class, 10 per cent more for freight. Flour, chocolate, preserves, pork and sugar all will cost more. How much has not yet been announced. Movie seats and haircuts will go up.

All these were in addition to increases announced yesterday for gasoline, up 3 per cent; milk 4 per cent; butter 6 per cent; and beef 10 per cent.

One result of all this was a 2.7 per cent jump in the index of 179 staple articles on which the government bases its cost of living estimate.

Spending For Defense May Rise 2 Billion

Lawmakers Hear Proposals To Meet Russian Challenge

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3 (P)—The Eisenhower administration today was reported planning to spend an extra 2½ billion dollars next year on defense and foreign aid to meet the challenge of Russia's military-scientific advances.

Plans for a bigger Defense Department budget and increased spending by mutual security agencies were laid before 31 congressional leaders from both parties at a five-hour White House briefing.

President Eisenhower, who suffered a slight stroke a week ago yesterday, presided over the meeting for 2½ hours.

Sen. Bridges of New Hampshire, chairman of the Republican policy committee in the Senate, reported the administration wants to raise the defense budget about two billion dollars for the fiscal year starting next July 1. He said most of the increase would be devoted to missiles and antisubmarine equipment.

Defense spending this year has been estimated at 38.4 billion dollars.

Spending Objective Set

Sen. Russell (D-Ga.), chairman of the Senate Armed Services Committee, told reporters after the meeting the defense program has not yet been firmed up. He said the legislative leaders were given a spending objective but that the administration wasn't yet sure it could stick to it. He declined to furnish any figures.

A figure of $3,940,000,000 was reported to have been advanced by Secretary of State Dulles for a new foreign aid program covering both military and economic assistance to American allies. Congress voted $3,436,000,000 for mutual security in the current fiscal year.

Apparently the administration hopes to hold over-all federal spending in the new year close to the current figures by cutting down on domestic programs.

Chairman Cannon (D-Mo.) of the House Appropriations Committee said he gathered from the briefing that the entire budget for the new fiscal year will run a little more than the 71.8 billion dollars Eisenhower requested last January.

No Debt Lid Hike Indicated

Bridges added there was no suggestion that the administration plans to ask for an increase in the national debt ceiling at this time. The ceiling now stands at 275 billion dollars.

In addition to increased defense spending, the administration was reported to have recommended:

1. A five-year extension of the Reciprocal Trade Agreements Act, which expires June 30, to stabilize foreign trade.

2. Amendment of the Atomic Energy Act to make it possible for this country to share more of its atomic secrets, particularly in the field of weapons, with friendly nations.

Greek Vessel Sends Out SOS

HONOLULU, Dec. 3 (P)—A 418-foot tramp freighter, flying the flag of Greece, reported in a distress call today it was "out of control" in a hurricane-swept area of the mid-Pacific.

The Margarita Chandris, with a crew of 35 to 40 men, gave no other information. There was speculation in Honolulu shipping circles that she may have lost a rudder.

The ship was sailing in ballast—without cargo. Thus she probably was riding higher in the water, offering a large target for the battering of Hurricane Nina, which whiplashed the Hawaiian Islands Sunday night and Monday morning.

The Coast Guard cutter Winnemac sped into the area, some 70 miles south-southwest of the French Frigate Shoals.

The position given in the SOS was about 420 miles northwest of Honolulu. The weather bureau said charts indicated winds of 50 to 55 miles an hour.

In the distress call, the ship's position was given as latitude 23.00 north, longitude 165.15 west. An hour earlier, the weather bureau fixed Hurricane Nina's position at 20.90 north and 164.50 west.

The Coast Guard said the cargo liner President Monroe was expected in the area early Wednesday morning.

Soviets Say Rocket Still Circling Globe

LONDON, Wednesday, Dec. 4 (AP)—Moscow radio said today the carrier rocket of Sputnik I still is circling the earth.

A broadcast quoted an unnamed member of the Soviet Academy of Science as saying that when the rocket does reach the lower layers of the earth's atmosphere "it will turn into a huge incandescent ball clearly visible at large distances even in the daytime."

The scientist added: "The carrier rocket is due to flare up soon, about the first half of December, and it will be the first artificial bolide in the world."

Bolide is another name for meteorite.

Western scientists have been unable to find any trace of the carrier rocket since Saturday and have expressed belief it already has disintegrated.

The unidentified Soviet expert was quoted by Moscow as saying "both the Sputnik and its carrier rocket are coming up against increasing resistance of air with the result they are getting heated and will end by flaring up like a meteor."

The broadcast said the carrier rocket should flare up at an altitude of 100 to 150 kilometers, about 62 to 93 miles from the earth's surface.

"It will be possible to see the flare up of the rocket with the naked eye in many places," it added, "and to photograph and observe it with optical instruments."

The broadcast, beamed to North America, said radio location stations "in various parts of the globe" which ordinarily observe meteors "can of course participate in observing this, the world's first artificial bolide."

Moscow radio communiques Monday and Tuesday nights had failed to mention the carrier rocket.

Spain Reports Troops Quelling Colony Revolt

MADRID, Spain, Dec. 3 (AP)—Spain's war ministry said today that Spanish troops and warships were steadily putting down attacks by rebels and Moroccan irregulars in the colony of Ifni.

There was no report here of any further rebel activity in the bigger Spanish Sahara colony along the Atlantic coast of Africa to the south of Ifni.

A communique said the rebel fighting spirit was fading rapidly "because of the hard beating they are suffering at the hands of our troops."

The war ministry announced that T'Zelata De Sbuia, a small military post and road junction in southeastern Ifni, had been freed from rebel attack without loss to Spanish forces. It added that the entire sector is now cleared of rebels.

T'Zelata De Sbuia is a few miles north of Til-Uin, which the Spaniards said they had liberated several days ago.

A war ministry communique said contact was made with a unit of paratroopers dropped at the post nine days ago. Their commander, a lieutenant, was killed in action.

Opponents Boycott Jai Alai "Clinic"

ANNAPOLIS, Dec. 3 (AP)—Backers of a jai alai arena planned for Anne Arundel County explained their position and the sport with words and film today.

Opponents of the move who had said they would not attend the conference kept their word.

So the two dozen persons gathered here for the session were mostly reporters, who asked most of the questions, or local political figures who insisted they still had an open mind on the controversial proposal.

The man who did most of the talking was F. Joseph Donohue, Washington attorney who heads Auditoriums Inc., the group that has been licensed by the county commissioners to operate the fast-moving Spanish game in this county.

Socialite Gives Cops Rough Time

BELOIT, Wis., Dec. 3 (AP)—Mrs. Horace Dodge III — colorful former model Gregg Sherwood who wed the automobile heir several stormy years ago — is home for the holidays. And today she was hauled into Municipal Court on the harrowing tale of three Beloit policemen.

They contended that the blonde beauty, among other things, went through a stop light, broke the speed limit, conducted herself in a disorderly manner and finally assaulted an officer last night — all because a policeman scolded her for jumping the stop light.

Mrs. Dodge pleaded innocent on all counts.

The three officers testified that during the excitement, which led from the stoplight in question to the home of Mrs. Dodge, she became "upset," sped away from officers at speeds up to 60 m.p.h., used rude and offensive language to the officers, kicked Sgt. Howard Bjorklund in the shins and finally in an effort to tear up a traffic summons tore up her driver's license.

Judge Arthur Luebke continued the case to Dec. 11.

Mother, 7 Children Lose Lives In Fire

MARIANNA, Ark., Dec. 3 (AP)—A pregnant mother and her seven children perished last night in a fire that destroyed their tenant farm home.

Sheriff Courtney Langston Jr. said the fire presumably started from an overheated stove. He identified the Negro mother as the wife of J. L. Bowers, a tenant on the Ruben White farm at nearby Westor.

Benson, In Fighting Mood, Vows To Stay On As Agriculture Chief

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3 (AP)—Secretary of Agriculture Benson declared in a fighting statement today he intends to stick on the job and push for his farm policy regardless of political criticism.

He called what his aides had described as an important news conference to clear the atmosphere of recent speculation about how long he would remain in the Cabinet.

Standing to face the nearly 100 newsmen who gathered at his office, and speaking firmly and with the air of one who knew where he stood with his boss, Benson read from a prepared document:

"You have heard, I have heard much speculation in recent weeks on whether the secretary of agriculture is a political asset or liability. I have been told this: 'What you say may be true, but newsmen who gathered at his office, and speaking firmly and with the air of one who knew where he stood with his boss, Benson read from a prepared document:

"Let me say right here," he added, "that what I am about to say is a statement — not of resignation — but one of resolution."

He went on to restate his farm policy views and defended them as being good politics because they offered the unstable solution to the problems of unstable farm prices and income.

Gannett, Noted Publisher, Dies

ROCHESTER, N.Y., Dec. 3 (AP)—Frank E. Gannett, who entered the newspaper business as a delivery boy and remained to build one of the nation's largest newspaper empires, died today at the age of 81.

The publisher had been in declining health since April 1955, when he fractured a vertebra in a fall at his home. Ten days later he suffered a stroke. He died at home.

Gannett was president emeritus of the Gannett Co., parent firm of the Gannett group, which includes 22 newspapers, four radio stations and three television stations. Most of the properties are in New York State.

The newspapers have a combined circulation of more than 900,000.

Control of the properties rests with the Frank E. Gannett Newspaper Foundation, Inc., which Gannett created in 1935. He joined the foundation to continue operating the Gannett newspapers and stations after his death, with community service as the paramount objective.

Con Man Trapped By Intended Victim

Detective Turns Tables On Fake Cop

BALTIMORE, Dec. 3 (P)—Two tim, though innocent, would be suspected con men were in jail today, the victims of very mistaken identity. Their last victim was Detective Lt. Loch Humphreys. Humphreys said police had three complaints about the pair. One of the men would invite the intended victim to his hotel room. There he would feign an act of perversion, Humphreys said, and the other man would rush in identifying himself as an officer. The pretend-policeman would tell the victims he had to go with him Gray, 39, of Newport, Ky., were to police headquarters. The vic-

Ex-Policeman Reindicted On Bribe Charge

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3 (P)—Former Police Detective George C. Prather was reindicted today on a charge of attempting to bribe a police lieutenant in a gambling payoff protection scheme. The indictment is a substitute for another in which Prather had been named. Prather was apprehended last month on a farm near Booneville, Ark. He had disappeared more than a year ago when he was due to begin serving a sentence of 16 months to 4 years on a charge of conspiracy. Prather is expected to be returned here from Arkansas this week. The new indictment accuses Prather of attempting to bribe former Police Lt. Todd O. Thoman Jr., by turning over more than $2,500 to him during 1953 and 1954. Also named in the substitute indictment on both conspiracy and attempted bribery counts is Calvin D. Hoagland, described as being associated with Emmitt R. Waring, a Washington gambler. The new indictment, however, does not rename as a defendant former Police Capt. John B. Monroe. It names him as a co-conspirator with Hoagland but does not designate him as a defendant. Monroe is serving time as a result of his conviction in another case on charges of bribery and conspiracy.

New Yorker Wins McKeldin Award

NEW YORK, Dec. 3 (P)—Bernard Katzen, New York attorney and State Department consultant, was announced tonight as winner of the 1957 Theodore R. McKeldin Prize of the America-Israel Society. The announcement was made by The Very Rev. James A. Pike, Dean of the Cathedral of St. John, Th. Divine, chairman of the society's New York chapter. Dean Pike praised Katzen for his "distinguished work" in behalf of promoting cultural relations between the two countries. Katzen prepared a plan, enacted by Congress, under which $3,525,000 was allotted for Israeli projects in education, science and the humanities. The McKeldin prize will be awarded at a dinner here Jan. 23. It is named in honor of Gov. Theodore R. McKeldin of Maryland, national president of the America-Israel Society founded in 1954.

Police Phone Tapping Probed

BALTIMORE, Dec. 3 (P)—The Baltimore grand jury began probing today tapping of telephones by police. It heard first from two suspended policemen, Inspector Clarence O. Forrester and Sgt. Herbert S. Meekins of the Rackets Division. Forrester was indicted previously by the grand jury on charges of malfeasance in office, subornation of perjury, and maintaining a disorderly house. He was ordered to bring to the grand jury all wire tap records he had anything to do with officially. Meekins was on a raid of a Baltimore tavern at which it was reported telephones were tapped without required court orders. Two men arrested and convicted as a result of the raid have been granted new trials on contention that they were framed. State's Attorney J. Harold Grady had no comment on the day's proceedings.

State GOP Leaders Will Meet Monday

FREDERICK, Dec. 3 (P)—Mayor John A. Derr said today Western Maryland Republican leaders would meet next Monday at Hagerstown to map strategy for the coming elections. Derr, 47, has indicated recently he would look favorably toward running for the Republican nomination for governor, but he would not say whether he would pick next week's meeting as the time to announce. Gov. McFeldin, completing his second term, is barred by law from a third term. Rep. James P. S. Devereux and Rep. Edward P. Miller have been mentioned frequently as gubernatorial possibilities. If both should decide to seek reelection, the field would be open for Derr and others to announce.

PSC To Hear B&O Plea On January 15

BALTIMORE, Dec. 3 (P)—The Baltimore & Ohio Railroad will try to convince the Public Service Commission Jan. 15 it should be permitted to end its passenger service between Baltimore and New York. The commission set the date for hearing the railroad's plea that its five million dollar a year loss on passenger service between the two cities justifies discontinuance.

Erco To Lay Off 1,500

RIVERDALE, Md., Dec. 3 (P)—The Erco Electronic Products plant is reducing its labor force of 1,500 by about 25 per cent because of a decline in government contracts. A spokesman for Nuclear Products-Erco Division of ACF Industries, Inc., said around 200 employees already have been laid off and about 200 more will be let out by Jan. 1. The Erco plant turns out electronic flight simulators—or trainer-planes—for the Navy and Air Force. The palace of King Minos in ancient Crete was as large as Buckingham palace in London.

Britain Asks Bids On Raising Warship

LONDON, Dec. 3 (P)—The admiralty invited bids today for raising the battleship Royal Oak, sunk by a German U-boat in a daring raid on Scapa Flow at the outset of World War II. Salvage firms were invited to submit bids for lifting the warship and breaking it up for scrap. Four torpedoes smashed into the Royal Oak as she rode at anchor Oct. 14, 1939. She went down with loss of 833 lives. The German submarine escaped. The admiralty considered lifting the ship eight years ago but yielded to objections by Orkney Islanders that the bodies of her crew should not be disturbed for the sake of scrap. The Royal Oak, 11th holder of the name, cost the equivalent of 12½ million dollars in 1914. She fought in the World War I Battle

Woman, 90, Held Captive By Daughter For 8 Years

CHICAGO, Dec. 3 (U.P.) — It appeared to be a routine item on the Probate Court docket yesterday until records disclosed a 90-year-old woman's story of being held captive eight years by her own daughter in a junk-filled flat.

Police entered the apartment Nov. 1 at the request of neighbors, the records showed. They found Mrs. Hattie Rice and her 60-year-old daughter, Dorothy, near starvation — another daughter, Marian, 53, dead. Marian's body was in bed beside Mrs. Rice.

Death apparently was due to natural causes, police said, but the time of death was not set.

Mrs. Rice told police Dorothy had kept her a prisoner in the apartment eight years.

"I've prayed every day for a year that somebody would rescue me," she was quoted.

Mrs. Rice weighed only 60 pounds. Her daughter was down to 75.

Police said there had been no light or heat in the apartment for two years. The only food found was breakfast cereal.

In the litter-strewn apartment suburban Oak Park police discovered $5,500 in cashier's checks and $14.03 in cash. The checks were in $500 denominations and had been obtained from an Oak Park bank in 1953.

Historians estimate it cost Christopher Columbus the equivalent of $36 thousand to discover America. His payroll for the 90 men aboard his three ships amounted to $3,500 a month.

If President Should Ever Want To Resign, How Would He Do It?

By ARTHUR EDSON

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3 (U.P.) — As soon as the illness of the world's most famous patient was identified as a mild stroke, suggestions flew about that President Eisenhower would, or should, resign.

These suggestions promptly were knocked down at the White House. And Vice President Nixon, who would get the job if Eisenhower were to quit, said: "I would like to scotch once and for all. If I can, any rumors to the effect that the President himself or anybody in the President's official family have discussed or are considering the possibility of resignation."

Even though the President's recovery seems remarkable, the thought keeps bobbing up: In all our history, no president ever has quit.

How does a president go about giving up what many think is the world's most taxing job? Would he drop a note to us, the voters who hired him, and say he was sorry but circumstances beyond his control compelled him, etc.?

And would we send back our regrets, and maybe ask if he couldn't stay on for the Christmas rush?

Well, as you might suspect, it isn't like that at all.

Here's what the Constitution has to say on the subject:

"In case of the removal of the president from office, or of his death, resignation or inability to discharge the powers and duties of the said office, the same shall devolve on the vice president."

Any president who decides to toss in the towel can do so "only by a written instrument" which he must sign. This is to be deposited with the secretary of state.

Presumably the president would set a time for the resignation to take effect, the vice president would take the oath at or around that moment, and history would be made.

Come to think of it, it is surprising that no president ever has quit. Certainly many must have regretted, in private, that they ever hired out for such a job. Woodrow Wilson, crippled by a stroke, Abraham Lincoln, beleaguered not only by his enemies but also by members of his own party.

But quit? Possibly the reaction of Harry Truman in 1948 was typical. The Democrats had lost Congress two years earlier and Sen. J. W. Albright (D-Ark) said he thought Truman should resign and, if possible, permit a Republican to take over.

Truman didn't reply publicly, but he wasted no time getting his views out. He let it be known that he wouldn't think of such a thing. His view: That would be running out on the job.

An obvious conclusion: Any man with the ambition and drive that takes him to the presidency isn't likely to quit. Our history proves it.

Fish as well as ships use the Suez canal. They travel back and forth between the Red sea and the eastern Mediterranean.

Knight Urges U.S. Share Space Secrets

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3 (U.P.) — Gov. Goodwin J. Knight of California said last night the United States can "regain the initiative" from Russia by sharing with other nations the space secrets penetrated by its own satellite.

The Soviets promised to exchange scientific data obtained with their Sputniks but to date have disclosed nothing important, Knight said in a speech prepared for the U.S. Olympic Assn.

"What little damage American prestige may have suffered on Oct. 4 when Sputnik started circling the globe may be easily offset by concrete expressions of our interest toward the advancement of science," Knight said.

The United States, he added, will not be judged on the basis of which country first launched an

First Manned Space Ship Is Possible Within Five Years, U.S. Scientist Says

NEW YORK, Dec. 3 (AP) — The nation's first manned space ship could be blasting off within five years, a U.S. missile scientist said yesterday.

He listed this technically possible timetable for space accomplishments:

A manned space station in 6-7 years.

First flight around the moon in 8-10 years.

Kraft A. Ehrlicke, one of the top scientists working on the Atlas intercontinental ballistic missile, said:

"Technically we are capable of having manned orbital gliders in five years."

Development of these space ships, he said, depends on such things as support and financing.

Speaking of intermediate range ballistic missiles and ICBMs, he said there are three stages of work:

First there is the design and general development stage. Then the missile must be thoroughly flight tested in parts as well as in whole. Finally, personnel must be trained to handle it.

On the ICBM, he said, it is obvious we are in the flight test stage.

Asked by newsmen if the production order on IRBMS meant they had successfully completed the flight test stage, he said he could not comment directly since he wasn't connected with IRBM programs.

But, he added, production orders usually meant you had "reasonably well demonstrated" that a missile was operable.

Ehrlicke, who worked on the German V2 with Werner von Braun is now assistant to the technical director of astronautics in General Dynamic Corp.'s Convair division.

At a news conference, Ehrlicke said, the U.S. does not now have a prototype of a manned space ship.

On the general missile program, Ehrlicke said that no flight test is really a failure. Something is learned even when missiles fail to achieve their ultimate goals.

Personnel Group Meeting Tomorrow

The first membership meeting of the recently-organized Potomac Valley Personnel Association will be held Thursday at 6 p.m. at Cumberland Country Club.

Officers are Dan R. Staley, personnel manager, West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company, Luke, president; F. T. Bell, personnel manager, Kelly-Springfield Tire Company, vice president; William W. Schofield, office manager, Emerson-Pryne Company, Keyser, secretary; E. M. Pieschel, service supervisor, Allegany Ballistics Laboratory, Pinto, treasurer.

Purpose of the association is to "bring together individuals with a common interest in the field of personnel administration, to foster free discussion of common problems, and to learn from qualified sources of changes and innovations in the personnel field; to the end that all participating can improve their skills in handling personnel problems."

Programs for the monthly meetings will be designed to provide qualified speakers on personnel subjects, with open question and answer periods, panel discussions on personnel problems, and selected films on subjects of interest in the personnel field.

The program for Thursday, according to Bell, who was appointed program chairman, will deal with automation and is narrated by Edward R. Murrow.

Representatives of eight industries and businesses in the Cumberland area participated in the organization of the association and Staley predicted that they will be joined on Thursday by a considerable number of representatives of other firms that have been invited to become members.

Membership in the association is by invitation only. Each business will be entitled to one voting membership but the number of members from each firm is not limited.

Meetings will be held the third Thursday of each month except during June, July and August when no meetings will be held.

James Fadley Faces Charge In Jail Break

John James Fadley, alias James W. Fadley, this city, will be charged with escape from the Allegany County jail later this week by the State's Attorney's office.

Fadley walked away from the Allegany County lockup on Saturday, September 28, while the Sheriff's Association of Maryland was holding its state convention in Cumberland.

At the time of his escape he was on a working detail at the jail, handling the janitor's duties.

Paul M. Fletcher, state's attorney, said yesterday Fadley was re-arrested on November 22 by two city police officers and has been confined in the City Jail since on a drunk charge.

Magistrate Donald W. Mason sentenced the man to 10 days in the City Jail, and when this sentence expired yesterday he was turned over to the Sheriff's office.

The Fadley story began on May 21 when he was sentenced by Trial Magistrate J. Milton Dick to six months and 115 days on four motor vehicle charges. The magistrate noted that the sentences were to run consecutively.

The sentences included six months confinement for driving a motor vehicle while under the influence (second offense), and 115 days in default of fines totaling $228.65.

Fadley served almost five months of the sentence when he walked away from the county jail work detail.

A spokesman for the sheriff's office said it is the custom of the office to place men on the trusty list shortly after their confinement. The trustees handle janitor duties at the county jail, and some are detailed to the State Police Barracks in LaVale where they perform similar duties.

Fadley, shortly after being confined, was detailed to the State Police, but returned within a week.

The sheriff said yesterday more security will be applied in his case.

Mr. Fletcher pointed out this morning that it is responsibility of the jailer to see that his prisoners are confined and act in good conduct.

In the event of an escape, Fletcher said, it is the responsibility of the jailer to apprehend the escapee, but that there is no written procedure to follow.

The bidding:
East South West North

Double 3 clubs Pass Pass
Double Pass Pass Pass

Opening lead: King of hearts.

Among the recent changes and modifications made in my system easily the most colorful and dramatic is the unusual no trump overcall. It provides that where a defender makes a call in no trump that cannot possibly have a natural meaning it is interpreted as a take-out double for the minor suits. Observe how North used this device to create a gigantic swing today.

He was convinced there was no defense to the heart game and felt a saving could be effected by a sacrifice bid in a minor suit. But which one? A bid of five diamonds might prove disastrous if South were short there.

North decided, therefore, to make partner pick the suit by a bid of four no trump. Obviously this was not a Blackwood call but serves the purpose of a take-out double. However, there is a delicate inference flowing from North's bid. Inasmuch as he had made it impossible for partner to bid four spades, it must be that he is not interested in the other major and partner is asked to select his best minor suit. East doubled to show his strong defensive values and after South chose clubs for the take-out, East repeated his double. Perhaps West should have left it in, but we cannot find it in ourselves to criticize him.

East's four heart contract could have been defeated only through the unlikely opening lead of a spade. Actually North and South would have to go some to set five hearts. Although North intended his bid as an effort to find a cheap sacrifice, South proceeded to make the contract.

West opened the king of hearts and South ruffed the continuation. Declarer drew trumps and then played ace and another diamond, although the suit broke badly, he still had two trumps left with

Glass Worker In Turtle Club

A member of the Yard Department of Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company Works 7 has been awarded membership in "The Turtle Club," an organization of men and women who have had their lives saved by the wearing of protective "hard hats."

He is William Miles who on September 14 was unloading cullet (glass) from a bin when a large piece of glass flew from the chute and struck his safety hat. He was not injured and lost no time from work. His protective hat was forced from his head and dented by the impact.

Jay Dicken, another PPG employee in the Tank Department, was accepted for Turtle Club membership several months ago. Dicken's life was saved when a wrench broke during operations to repair a burned and fouled bolt in the Tank Department. Dicken's injury was minor, he lost no time and the hat was only torn.

During the construction period at Works 7, safety hats were a must for all employees and visitors. Today, safety hats are required for particular jobs.

Miles received a Turtle Club membership certificate, wallet card, lapel pin and white safety hat from the club. They were presented by J. W. Willits, superintendent of the PPG Warehouse and Shipping Department.

New Purchasing Plan Voted For County

A plan to buy locally when possible and advantageous, and to have all purchase orders, except in emergencies, presented to the Board of Allegany County Commissioners before any buying was adopted yesterday by the board.

The issue was brought up by William A. Wilson, the new county commissioner at his first meeting, when he questioned the policy of the board purchasing a germicide for use in county buildings from a Pennsylvania concern.

The salesman appeared yesterday and took the usual order, and afterward the issue was brought up.

Wilson said all purchases should be made from county concerns paying county taxes.

The other commissioners agreed, and C. N. Wilkinson pointed out that purchase orders were being handled improperly under policy that had been established.

Wilkinson said in many cases the purchase order would be presented to the county board at one of its two weekly meetings, accompanied by a bill for the material.

Getting the bill and the purchase order at the same time is improper, he maintained. No individual employed by the county should buy anything until the board knows about it, he added.

Wilkinson declared the purchase order should be presented to the commissioners, so that it would be either rejected or accepted.

The county commissioners are held responsible to the taxpayers, he added. Some people, he inferred, have lost sight of this fact.

Wilson said the purpose of a purchase order was to have it presented before the responsible body for acceptance or rejection.

J. Walker Chapman, county road supervisor, asked about emergency buying, when a piece of equipment breaks down and an immediate purchase is necessary to keep it in operation.

He was informed that he should not wait to have purchases of this type approved, but to follow through with an emergency order.

The discussion between Chapman and Wilkinson narrowly escaped being a repetition of past disputes at board meetings, but Chapman said he was perfectly willing to go along with any directive of the board.

Chapman added that if the commissioners wanted to take away any of the responsibilities he has taken as head of the County Roads Department, and assume them, he also approved.

It was agreed by all three that purchase orders except for emergency buying, should be presented by all department heads to the commissioners before any purchases are made.

They also agreed that the buying at the county institutions, the Home, Infirmary and Sylvan Retreat, would be excepted.

This is because the commissioners hold a monthly meeting with the heads of these departments concerning their operations.

Child Safety Is Discussed

A panel discussion "Protection of the School Child," featured the meeting of the Allegany County PTA Council Monday at Johnson Heights School.

Harry Baker, chairman of the council's Safety Committee, was in charge of the discussion. Members of the panel were Lt. W. E. O'Hara of the LaVale barracks of Maryland State Police; Sgt. James W. Brown of the Cumberland Police Department; Ward Wilson, president of the School Bus Association; and Mrs. Mildred Kuhn, patrol advisor for Johnson Heights School.

The council also discussed at length its main project, awarding of scholarships to Frostburg State Teachers College. Six students have been given scholarships in the past two years. They are chosen strictly on the basis of scholarship and need for a scholarship.

The council's scholarship committee is headed by Dr. Lillian C. Compton, former president of Frostburg State; Robert Jones, and Mrs. Lawrence Shafferman, council president.

Johnson Heights PTA, of which Raymond Hahney is president, was host to the council. Miss Loretta McGeedy is Johnson Heights principal. Approximately 165 attended.

Sewage Plant Dedication Is Being Planned Friday

Cumberland's new $2,000,000 sewage treatment plant will be dedicated at ceremonies Friday at 10 a.m.

The dedication program was announced today by the committee headed by Street Commissioner William H. Buchholtz. Also on the committee are Mrs. Jennie Grahame of the County Health Department; and Finance Commissioner John J. Long.

Master of ceremonies will be City Auditor Arthur B. Gibson. Invocation will be by Rev. J. Marius Elsenher of SS Peter and Paul Church.

Remarks will be heard from Dr. Edward Davens, deputy director of the State Department of Health and Robert T. Regester, consulting engineer of Baltimore. Also speaking will be Charles S. Catherman Jr., president of the Cumberland Chamber of Commerce, with closing remarks by Mayor Roy W. Eves.

Benediction will be by Rev. Maurice Robertson, pastor of First Presbyterian Church.

Cumberland Municipal Concert Band will play during the ceremony.

Approximately 200 invited guests, including federal, state, county and local officials, have been invited.

A tour of the plant will follow the dedication ceremony.

Regester will be host to invited guests at a buffet luncheon.

Bond Is Posted In Manslaughter Case

John Logsdon, 15, of 214 Central Avenue, was released under $1,000 bond yesterday for action of the January term of grand jury on a charge of manslaughter.

The charge was placed against the youth Monday after he was involved in the fatal shooting of Raymond Lee McBride, 15, of Winifred Road, while they were deer hunting together on Piney Mountain in the Homewood Addition area.

Logsdon Monday afternoon waived a preliminary hearing before Trial Magistrate J. Milton Age.

Dick after Juvenile Court waived jurisdiction in the case.

Monday night he was confined to the Detention Quarters at the Allegany County Infirmary, and yesterday his parents, Noah and Laura Virginia Logsdon, posted bond before Magistrate Dick.

Julius E. Schindler is the attorney for the Logsdon youth.

chiatric testimony is expected to form the bulk of the defense.

Epple testified that hair taken from the bark of the tree at the Van Horns' farm home was similar to Mrs. Van Horn's.

Cpl. Thomas Lau testified that Van Horn showed them where to find clothing at the edge of a river two days after his wife was murdered. He said the blood-stained clothes were identified by Van Horn as his.

Patrolmen found Van Horn sitting in his station wagon late the night of June 1. He threatened to commit suicide and directed police to his wife's body on a nearby embankment. They testified at the opening of his trial yesterday.

The Van Horn marriage two years ago was her second. Her will left him the bulk of her estate which will exceed $850,000, said Charles B. Buck, bank president who prepared the report.

Prosecutor Frank H. Newell III twice tried to elicit from witnesses that Van Horn "was financially dependent on his wife."

The three judges hearing the trial without a jury upheld defense objections to an answer.

The defense produced from employees, relatives and friends such descriptions of Van Horn as "mild mannered," "a really good guy," duced most of the fireworks on the day's jammed calendar and the roads commission revisions received cut-and-dried treatment. Both are expected to occupy much of the time of the 30-day session of the Legislature, which is restricted by law to consideration of budgetary, general welfare (statewide) and emergency legislation.

1. Enlargement of the roads commission from three members to five. One each would come from Baltimore City, the Eastern Shore, Western Maryland, North-central Maryland and Southern Maryland.
2. Curbing "the discretionary power" of the commission to "assure local participation by county or city government officials in policy determinations of local area importance."

Those Deceptive Farm Statistics

The harder Washington tries, the more interesting the statistics it amasses become.

Those who have seen the map of "realized farm income" published recently by the U. S. Department of Agriculture have no doubt that the government was really trying this time.

This map of the United States shows that (income-wise) "dollars per farm" in 1956 were $14,094 in Arizona; $2,563 in Nevada; $5,259 in Montana; $3,738 in Iowa; $4,369 in New Jersey; $2,237 in Ohio; $2,052 in Kansas, and $1,327 in Oklahoma.

Those who travel around the country extensively, and recognize farm prosperity when they see it—and understand the fundamentals of productive land—know that this is a case in which statistics mean practically nothing.

The calculations concerning Arizona and Nevada furnish a large part of the explanation of these cockeyed figures.

The reason Arizona ranks highest in the nation on "realized farm income," counting "dollars per farm," is that there is little agriculture in Arizona, compared to the well known farm states, and what there is can be found largely in big commercially operated vegetable units, under irrigation.

The situation in Nevada is similar. There is so much arid or semi-arid waste land in Nevada that most visitors to that state get the impression that there is no farming at all.

In densely populated Ohio, for instance, there are thousands of small tracts, classed as "farms," where the operators depend largely upon urban employment. Their farm incomes are small and they pull down the state average. But of course a statistical map cannot go into such details. Which is why you can "prove" anything with the right statistics.

These Days

The Half States

The Southern States may be angered because the Federal Government continues, 92 years after the end of the Civil War, to interfere in their internal affairs. Compared, however, with what goes on in some of the Western States, the South is treated leniently, for in the West, the Federal Government has been grabbing more and more of the States, taking land, water, interfering with education, control of minerals, etc., etc.

When these Western States came into the Union, they thought that they were joining up as sovereign and equal States, but they made a mistake. They are apparently only half States. I came across this passage in the 1957 Message of Governor Milward L. Simpson of Wyoming:

"... We are denied the political and economic independence enjoyed in the older States which were granted their lands and resources. Our citizens must subscribe to the dictates of some fifty-nine Federal land management agencies! The Congress of the United States provided for 'admission into the Union on an equal footing with the original States.' The original States retained their lands, minerals, forests and other natural resources. If we had ours, or if the Federal Government paid the same taxes on its proportion of our lands withheld, we could effect great tax reductions for our people and provide for better service."

Despite all this, Wyoming maintains an extraordinary university which has one of the really great geology schools in all the world. Of this university, Governor Simpson said:

"... None of us want to see too strict legislative control of our University. The evils that are apparent in other States now reaping the whirlwind of such philosophy. Wyoming University has always been singularly unfettered in this regard. That accounts for its unprecedented advancement and high standing among the American Universities..."

Some time ago, there was considerable talk in Washington of doing something to improve the relations between the Federal Government and the States and one of the President's numerous administrative assistants was appointed to look after such matters. What has become of these good intentions is not evident. For it does seem that when the Federal Government owns about half the land of a State, all of which is removed from State taxes, that state is not likely to have ample funds to do its necessary work.

We are all in favor of the conservation of natural resources and the existence of forest reserves and of such a natural phenomenon as Yellowstone Park. But precisely how much of the land of a State does the Federal Government need to take? In one matter alone, the Pelton Dam, the State of Wyoming claims that it loses about $20,000,000 a year in revenue.

If the Federal Government absorbs the revenue of a State, where is the State to get any money except from the domineering bureaucrats who sit comfortably in Washington?

As one reads the messages of Western Governors, it is possible to realize how pressing is Federal interference in the affairs of their States and how little can be done about it. We are indeed a large country and the East does not know the West and California is a place all by itself, far off as though it were a different world. And the Florida Keys seem to be even more distant. But it is all the United States. I can recall my first visit to a part of Montana where the Missouri River, or was it the Mississippi, looked like a tiny mountain stream. Sheep moved about the hills and Basques tended the sheep. Was I in the United States?

These Western States are so different from the Eastern, that one thinks of them only for their scenic magnificence until something comes up like a battle over the use of the water of great rivers.

Wyoming came home to me because of something much closer, namely that Columbia University, which my son attends, sends some of its geology students to the University of Wyoming to improve their education. It is a startling fact that the Wyoming Science Camp is about 30 years old and has an international reputation in its particular fields. Such an experience for a New York parent is startling.

What? Is there really so much West of the Hudson River? What a really small place New York is compared to the United States!

Russian People's Fear Can Prevent New War

By David Lawrence

WASHINGTON — The Russian people's fear of another war is today the greatest deterrent of war. It is the chief reason why the Kremlin will not risk steps that can provoke a war.

This simple truth is both the assurance of peace and the key to peace.

Sometimes, with all the hysteria that arises when there is introduced on the scene a spectacular weapon of devastating force, such as the intercontinental missile, there is a tendency to fail to see the forest for the trees.

Peoples — not weapons — are the key to peace.

This challenging fact was borne in on the writer over the weekend as he conversed with a taxi driver in New York City who spoke with an accent that was evidently European.

"What country did you come from?" I asked.

"The Ukraine," he answered. "I left there when I was eighteen. I was a soldier in the Czar's army when the Revolution happened in 1917."

"Did you and your people expect the Revolution?"

"No, we were positive it couldn't happen. We hoped for it but we were convinced the Czar was the strongest man in the world and that his army would crush any revolution quickly."

"But were the people dissatisfied — and had they been talking revolution?"

"Oh, yes," he said. "They were bitter. They didn't like the war. The separation of families and the casualties were terrible. The people were hungry and they thought a revolution would give them all the land the Czar had. They were uncivilized — I mean uneducated."

"What do you think are the chances of a revolution now?"

"Much better. The people are educated now. They have heard what freedom is like — they can't help learning about it somehow as they get more education."

"What would bring about revolution?"

"If they become afraid of another war — they just won't stand for war."

The foregoing is typical of what many prominent refugees have been telling this writer. It is a reflection of the feeling of people in any country as they face a tyrannical government. They will endure hardships. They will refrain from overt acts as long as they can. But once the threat of destruction appears, revolution becomes preferable. Desperate measures then are inevitable as the army itself joins the people in revolt.

This psychological behavior is well established by historical experience. But, strangely enough, those who direct or control our propaganda do not take advantage of it. Maybe it is because they don't get enough cooperation from the spokesmen for American policy.

Certainly America pulled a "boner" on the "Sputnik" episode — but not the kind generally supposed. The error wasn't just the fact that Russia launched the satellite first or that the United States was allegedly caught napping. The "boner" was in America's failure to take advantage of the opportunity to tell the people of Soviet Russia what new dangers the "Sputnik" really created for them.

It is a safe bet that if the United States had shot the first "Sputnik" into outer space, the would have worked around the clock for days and days broadcasting to the Soviet people the accusation that a "war-mongering nation" had begun a new era of intimidation. Belatedly the Moscow broadcasts have begun to criticize severely the U. S. Senate Investigating Committee for its effort to accelerate the production of missiles as a counter-move. This is clear recognition of a basic truth — that, as more and more deadly weapons are produced, the fears of the people in Russia will grow and top leaders there must find the only justification for war in the doctrine of self-defense. America must repeat constantly that it will never attack first. The Soviet people who know the arbitrariness of their rulers must be reminded that the real danger is that their own leaders will miscalculate and plunge the world into war.

Freedom for the individual and protection for human life — survival — are deeper reasons for unrest and potential revolution inside Russia today than any which prompted the 1917 Revolution.

More concentrated study by congress is needed on how to get "missiles" of information through to the Russian people. Partisan Senators and Congressmen have used their time more constructively in recent days if they had been making speeches directed to the people of Soviet Russia — to help them understand how their rulers have intensified the arms race that might lead to war.

Free peoples can win the hearts and minds of enslaved peoples but it takes bold measures — "Sputniks" of ideas. For the taxi-cab driver was right. Revolution against a despotism is always around the corner, and history has repeatedly revealed the reason for the saying: "Uneasy lies the head that wears the crown."

Baering Down On The News

By Arthur "Bugs" Baer

Guided missiles have shrunk the world like wool in hot water.

There was a time when two nations were far enough apart to be good neighbors.

But I still blame most of the trouble on the interpreters at United Nations. Why do they have to repeat everything they hear?

We've been getting advice from Baruch, Herb Hoover, Harry Truman and Churchill. But the most famous elder is still a berry.

But I still stick my sealed bid in at the two-cent window.

We've got to have integrated action and consolidated guesswork. The Commies scored because they reduced bureaucracy to its least common denominator. One dog to a Sputnik.

A scientist is as queer a fish as ever scared an ichthyologist. Stack him in an air-tight, germ-free, foodless laboratory for six weeks. He'll come out with a revolutionary invention, a complete dinosaur skeleton and he will be subnurned.

Weight Reduction Remains A Dietary Problem

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

Eating too much is the commonest cause of obesity and eating less is the best treatment. I have been looking for a less painful remedy for years but none has appeared. Fad diets, food supplements, and reducing pills enjoy a brief period of popularity and then fizzle. The opening statement still stands because it is difficult to beat common sense.

Most overweight persons have a good appetite and enjoy eating. They gained weight after marriage. Others accumulate poundage gradually because of years of nibbling while cooking, or at parties or conventions. They never learned to control appetite and food intake.

Every year a few more pounds were added, especially in women who had eaten too much during pregnancies. Some are compulsive eaters who turn to food to overcome boredom, frustration, and despondency. The scales tell them they are getting heavier but it takes the pinch test to demonstrate the excess blubber. At first there was just a fold or two between the thumb and index finger—then a handful.

It takes more than will power to reduce and maintain normal weight. The obese individual must have an incentive such as a desire to look and feel better. The morale must be boosted and encouragement given. Otherwise anxiety and frustration will be counteracted with a box of candy or a scrumptious meal. The food and living habits must be revised after ideal weight is reached, as weight always will be a problem.

Weight loss is achieved with a balanced diet, low in calories. The selection should be confined to the seven basic foods. Reduce the proportions and avoid fattening additives, such as frying meat and potatoes, sweetening fruits and vegetables, and adding high caloric dressings to salads. No yummy desserts. Substitute fruits for pies and slivers of cheese for butterscotch sundaes.

Clear broths, bouillon, unsweetened jello, sour or dill pickles, cranberries, and most relishes can be taken freely. Black coffee has no calories but too much contributes to obesity when it makes the individual nibble between meals because he is nervous.

There are many dietary crutches such as dextrodine and preludin. They help overcome the anxiety and depression associated with hunger, by reducing fatigue and suppressing appetite. Even though a person would have to walk 30 or more miles to lose a pound, exercise helps by enhancing the feeling of well being. It should be done daily to obtain maximum results.

U. S. Taxpayers Helped Pay For Dodgers' Move To Los Angeles

By Drew Pearson

San Francisco's contract with the New York Giants, but not Mayor Norris Poulson of L. A.

Shacks And Swimming Pools

The story of this amazing baseball deal goes back half a dozen years when public housing officials in the sprawled-out City of Los Angeles were trying to clean up the Negro shacks and Mexican tenements that contrast with the flower-bedecked swimming pools of motion picture stars. Under the Taft Housing Act, Fletcher Bowron and the City Council signed a contract with the federal government to build a housing project and make L. A. look more like the City of the Angels.

In unkept, crowded Chavez Ravine, land was condemned, families ousted. Suddenly City Councilman Ed Davenport switched his vote. This, together with another wavering councilman, turned a bare majority of the City Council over to the side of the real estate interests which had been trying desperately to stop public housing.

Later City Councilman Davenport died. In his safe deposit box was found $30,000 in crisp, clean cash. In three checking accounts was found $27,570. The total, $57,570, was more than the $7,500 annual salary he had drawn from the City Council in his eight years in office. Davenport had lived at the swank Park Wilshire Apartment House into which he moved shortly after taking office, yet after drawing a salary of $37,000 he had $57,570 left.

Later his wife made a formal statement all but admitting the money had come from the real estate lobby. The $57,570, she informed Internal Revenue, was "gifts of money" to her husband. Since you can't give gifts of money legally to a city official, these were bribes.

Los Angeles Internal Revenue agents started a thorough investigation with a view to finding out who paid the bribes. They were called off by higher-ups in the Eisenhower Administration.

Reversed By Referendum

Meanwhile friends of the realtors plus a referendum had reversed Mayor Bowron on public housing. Bowron, himself, a liberal Republican, was defeated by Congressman Norris Poulson, a conservative Republican who had voted in Congress with the real estate lobby.

The Chavez Ravine housing project was dead. Several thousand people had been moved out, their shacks and tenements torn down. The real estate lobby had won. However, the City of Los Angeles owed federal taxpayers about $6,000,000, and to get Mayor Poulson off the hook for this amount, Vice President Nixon and Senator William Knowland, both potent on Capitol Hill, discreetly helped put a rider in the 1954 housing bill permitting Los Angeles to unload the abortive Chavez Ravine housing project on Uncle Sam for the knockdown price of $1,279,000. This was $4,720,000 less than the government had advanced Los Angeles.

In other words, all the taxpayers paid Los Angeles for the cost of throwing Negroes and Mexicans out of their homes, tearing down their tenements and buying the land which now stands empty. Total cost was $4,720,000.

The rider was sneaked through the Senate when pro-public housing Senators were away attending the funeral of a great pro-housing Republican, Senator Charles Tobey of New Hampshire. Senator Saltonstall of Massachusetts helped Knowland and Nixon put it across.

Thanks to this bonanza, given to no other city in the USA, Mayor Poulson was able to offer this empty tract of land to the Brooklyn Dodgers at no cost to him. The other taxpayers had already paid for it.

However, the families who were dispossessed of their homes are not happy. Nor are about a thousand other families who must also be forced to move if the Dodgers get all the 330 acres promised them. Getting them to move will be more difficult, because under California law you can't condemn a man's home to build a ball park. Mayor Poulson also faces a referendum next spring before the Dodgers finally acquire the choice, free land once cleared to make Los Angeles look more like the City of the Angels.

Moscow Memories

By Bob Considine

NEW YORK—(INS)—Memories of a trip:

There must be two grades of building construction in Moscow. Moscow University and similar skyscrapers, and such edifices as Lenin Stadium and its nearby field house, should last a thousand years. The big U. S. Embassy Building, built five years ago, is falling to pieces and has enough roaches to move it to Leningrad.

The Russian souse gets drunker than our native blotto artist. During the 40th anniversary celebration of the Bolshevik Revolution the streets and squares of Moscow reverberated from time to time with the impact of Moscovite vines bounding off walls. They seemed happy about their condition. The fur-hatted cops let them go their way, some of them with half-empty vodka bottle in hand.

There are three fine-looking radio towers on Petrin Hill, overlooking Prague. One broadcasts heavy music and such news as the rigid Czech Communist Government permits on the air. The other two have another role: to jam the Voice of America, Radio Free Europe and BBC.

Yuri "no relation, please" Zhukov, Soviet minister in charge of establishing cultural relations with foreign countries, told us:

"Our children read literature. Your children read comic books. Your children have had television shows. Our children are given a one-hour television show each late afternoon. It is always an educational program."

"These people don't look downtrodden, they look happy." I said to an old Russian hand as we stood in Red Square and watched literally millions of Moscovites frolicking, marching along arm-in-arm, and singing.

"Sure, they're happy," he said. "For the first time that they can remember they can walk ACROSS Red Square to get on the other side. When the anniversary weekend is over they'll go back to the rules. They'll have to walk half a mile around the Square to get from, let's say, Lenin's tomb to Gum, the department store, right across the square.

The attractive wife of the American Ambassador to Moscow, Mrs. Llewellyn Thompson, is typical of the spouses of U. S. diplomats. Last year when her husband represented us in Vienna at the time of the Hungarian uprising, Mrs. Thompson set up a crafts school which is flourishing today and providing an income for many escapes.

In Moscow she has plunged into the imposing task of making a go of the Anglo-American School. And it is a task. Last Saturday night the good ladies involved in keeping the school open gave a "cabaret" to raise what Mrs. Thompson called "some good old capitalist money." The school roster embraces 19 nationalities among its 65 children — mostly the kids of Western diplomats assigned to the Soviet Union. The U. S. Information Agency, while sympathetic, cannot help the little school with any of its library. Against the law — American law. There are other unnerving taboos.

Mrs. Thompson's dream: a real American playground for the children. Swings, see-saws, basketball backstops, bats and balls. "We get an audience of Russians looking over our fence every time the children go out for recess," she told us. "What a wonderful thing it would be if we could afford to show the Russian people the kind of facilities our kids have back home."

Bill Hearst turned to our nice lady guide from Intourist one day as we rode along in a Zis. "This Zis is our pre-war Packard," auto buff Hearst told her. "Same long thin upright grille, rounded fenders, running boards, separated windshield and so forth."

The Russian lady smiled patiently and shook her head. "That's not so," she said. "It is Russian, and brand new."

William Preston Takes Office At Frostburg

Mayor James Will Not Seek Re-Election

FROSTBURG — William Preston, the newly appointed city commissioner to fill out the unexpired term of the late William Eberly, was sworn in at Monday night's meeting of the Mayor and City Council.

Mayor Joseph James administered the oath of office to the new councilman. Preston will serve as water and light commissioner. Just one month ago William Sluss was sworn in to fill out the unexpired term of G. Franklin Martens who retired from office to accept a position as assistant water superintendent.

Routine business, treasurer's report and payment of bills completed the evening's business. Mayor James indicated Monday night during the council meeting that he would not be a candidate for reelection next spring. He stated that reasons beyond his control will make it impossible to consider another term.

By C. V. BURNS

WITH the football season completed here are few notes off the cuff that were taken during the past campaign:

Only unbeaten, untitled team in Western Maryland or tri-state area—Fort Hill (10-0). First Cumberland school ever to win 10 games.

Team scoring most touchdowns—Fort Hill, 49.

Team scoring most points in area—Fort Hill, 342. Highest total since Fort Hill's city record of 361 in 1949. Romney's 376 in 1950 is tops for area.

Best defensive record—Set by Keyser, 39 points in 11 games for an average of 3.5.

Highest score rolled up by area team—Fort Hill 67, North Hagerstown 6.

Most shutouts scored—Keyser 7, Fort Hill 5, Moorefield 5.

Teams blanked the most times—Ridgeley 5, Romney 5, Southern 5.

Teams not shut out at all—Keyser, Fort Hill, Northern, Berkeley Springs and Potomac State. Tie games—(2)—Potomac State 6, Glenville 6; West Virginia School for the Deaf 0, Harpers Ferry 0, only scoreless tie.

Most Sensational Finish—Trailing 14-7 going into the final period, Fort Hill scored four touchdowns and 27 points in the last seven minutes to defeat Westminster High on the latter's field by the score of 34-14 on October 25.

Team failing to win a game—Franklin, W. Va., 0-7.

Total games decided by margin of single point—Nine.

Player with most touchdowns—Dalton Hillegas, Fort Hill, 16. City record is 23 by Earl Bruce, Allegany, 1948.

Field goal decided game—St. Francis, Spring Grove, Pa., scored field goal in final seconds to defeat LaSalle, 24-23, here on October 19.

Highest scorer in area—Dalton Hillegas, Fort Hill, 96 points.

Player scoring most extra points—Douglas Metz, Fort Hill, 39 out of 49. His total equals previous record set by Don Decker, Fort Hill, in 1949.

Biggest Disappointment—Failure of North Hagerstown, co-champion of CVAL in 1956, to win a game. Hubs were 0-6-1 in league and 0-7-1 overall.

Comeback Team of 1957—Frederick High with 5-4 record after 0-8-1 in 1956 and 0-9 in 1955.

Longest winning streak—Keyser 26 in row since 1955, stopped by Huntington Vinson in state Class A title playoff game.

Newest grid team—Hancock High School.

WOULD you believe that 11 years ago the deer kill for six days in Allegany county was 86 and this figure was more than trebled in a single day when close to 300 were slain on opening day this year?

In 1946 hunters bagged a total of 603 bucks in Garrett and Allegany counties. Last year the combined total for the two counties rose to an all-time high of 1,262.

FEW football coaches have experienced the job security of those at the University of Illinois. The Illini have had only three coaches in the last 50 years. Arthur Hall was there from 1907 to 1912, Bob Zupke from 1914 to 1941 and Ray Eliot is in his 16th year as mentor.

TEMPLE University has been voted the No. 1 basketball team in the East in a pool conducted by the University of Pittsburgh Athletic News Service.

Twelve leading eastern coaches participated in the poll and gave the Owls 116 points out of a possible 120.

LaSalle with 67 points, was placed second and Duquesne third with 66.

Connecticut (54), Canisius (40), Yale (39), St. Bonaventure (38), Pitt (32), Niagara (23) and N. Y. U. (21) followed in that order.

Bold Ruler Is Voted Best 3-Year-Old Colt

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., Dec. 3 (AP)—Bold Ruler, the Wheatley Stable colt who soundly defeated Gallant Man and Round Table in the Trenton Handicap at Garden State Park last month, was voted the champion 3-year-old colt of 1957 today by the Thoroughbred Racing Associations' board of selection.

The 22 racing secretaries from TRA member tracks made known their choice as the 16th annual meeting of the organization opened here.

Racetracker, owned by Emil Denmark, posted a $9.80 mutual while giving his trainer, George Alexandra, his fifth winner of the meeting.

Sunny Kim, the pacesetter from the start, saved runner-up honors by three-quarters of a length over General Arthur. Wise Margin, the 2-favorite, was never a contender.

Racetracker paid $9.80, $6.60 and $3.40. Sunny Kim $4.00 and $2.60, and General Arthur $3.40.

80,000 Ballots Received In Old Export Contest

Twigg Final Winner, 152 Scores Correct

Eighty thousand ballots were judged and $900 in cash awards were distributed among the nine winners in the Old Export Football Contest of the Week series which ended last week.

Ronnie Twigg, 306 Piedmont Avenue, was the ninth and final winner of the weekly award of $100 offered by the Cumberland Brewing Company, sponsor of the contest.

A record number of 152 correct scores were received on the Army-Navy game which the Midlands won by the score of 14-0.

Twigg and Margaret L. Sisk, 941 Shriver Avenue, also guessed the correct number of yards gained rushing by Navy—a total of 14—but the former won out because his estimate on yardage gained passing was closer to Navy's total of 93. Twigg had Navy gaining 120 yards through the air while Mrs. Sisk's guess was 132.

A record entry list of 13,703 was registered for the final contest of the season.

From now on and right through Christmas, you'll be constantly meeting people, friends or strangers. Do you know how important a part your voice plays in a greeting?

Really, the actual words make less difference than the manner in which they are delivered.

Have you ever stopped to think whether you were using your voice in its most attractive way? On being presented to strangers, do you smile with that touch of fun and use your most attractive voice? Or, are you that lazy-mouthed individual who mumbles or drops your voice like an uncontrolled elevator.

There's no substitute for the pleasure of a charming greeting and beautiful speaking voice. The Spanish people have a way of always expressing what they say with an exclamation point, letting their voice rise on the final words. It's the secret of the charming sound of their conver-

by John Crosby

Clearly, after "Annie Get Your Gun," Mary Martin is the first lady of television, though it might be argued she has occupied that position for quite a long time before that. However, "Annie" sets the seal of permanence on the lady who first took the title over with "Peter Pan."

I don't know that the production of the old Irving Berlin-Dorothy and Herbert Fields musical actually advanced television in any particular direction. As a matter of fact, "Annie" was a slightly old-fashioned musical even when it was produced eleven years ago. The "boy-meets-girl, boy-loses-girl, boy-gets-girl" theme had been altered only to the extent of putting the girl first in that sentence.

Still, the musical was fashioned by that old pro, Irving Berlin, and featured that old pro, Ethel Merman. The TV version had another old pro, Mary Martin, and that alone made the difference. From the moment she entered — shooting a bird off a lady's hat — to the finale when she rode off on a most improbable horse, Miss Martin was exuberantly alive, explosively funny, marvelously tuneless and just loaded down with talent.

In fact, she made all the difference. Without her, the TV version of "Annie" would have been just an over-long and expensive musical. With her, it was one of the memorable experiences of this or any year.

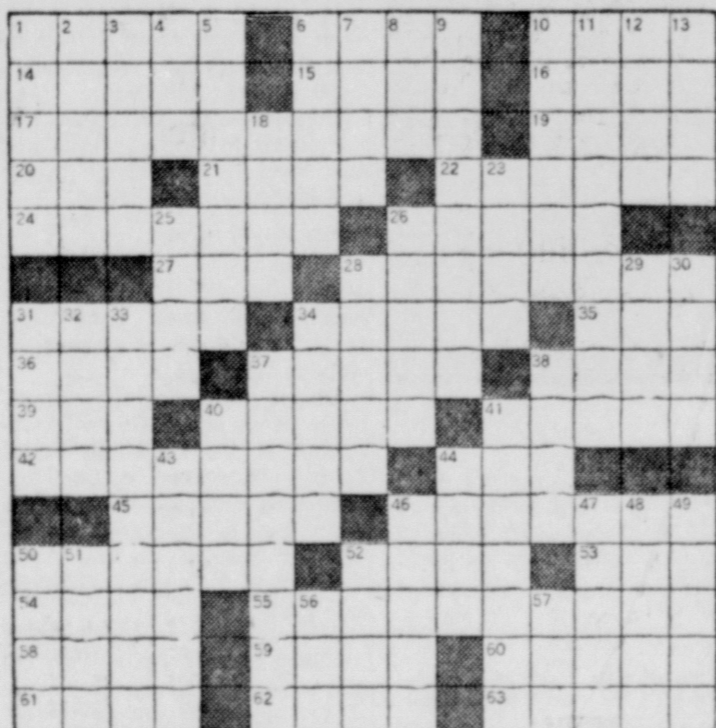

It opened badly. The sound from Hollywood went dead and even when it went on, I had some doubts. The opening scene—an argument over where the actors would stay—was noisy, brassy and much too stagey for the living room. But then John Raitt added his authoritative presence and his large voice, and then Miss Mary arrived and after that things were just fine.

The Berlin score is still a bouncy and vigorous one. The lyrics for "Doin' what Comes Naturally" and "You Can't Get a Man with a Gun" ("Oh, they don't buy pajamas for pistol-packing mamas") is Mr. Berlin in one of his more elfin moods. More typical is "The Girl That I Marry," a really lovely tune, and, of course, "There's No Business Like Show Business" is now practically the theme song of the entertainment industry. It's a great rousing show song and they made the most of it.

I especially liked the gaily irreverent cradle song which contained a line about "Behind the little hill, there's a busy little still" with which Miss Martin sang a bunch of children to sleep. The TV version of "Annie" pelleted along at a great clip from the first hour. There was a bit of let-down in the second hour including an Indian dance which could have done without. There was an interval there when I thought Miss Martin and Mr. Raitt were just going out of their way to avoid marrying each other and this got a little tedious. But then things picked up again and boiled to a big and happy finish.

In color, it was sumptuous especially a ballroom number which had great spaciousness.

Martin Named To County GOP Committee

Mullen Substitute Trial Magistrate

Making its seventh and eighth political appointments since June, the Allegany County Republican Committee last night selected John I. Mullen, 26, of Westernport, as a substitute trial magistrate for the county, and John I. Martin of Barton as a member of the committee.

The two men were named to replace David L. Williams who resigned both posts when he was sworn in as a member of the county delegation to the Maryland General Assembly on November 11.

James S. Getty, chairman of the GOP committee, said after the meeting in his office in the County Building on Union Street, that this was the first time since this committee was elected that a tie resulted in voting.

Getty Breaks Tie
Mr. Getty, normally a non-voting chairman of the seven-man committee, was called upon to break the deadlock in the balloting for the new member of the committee.

With four members of the committee present, Edgar M. Lewis, Ernest B. Treat, Melvin Sloan and Victor M. Hebb, a 2-2 tie resulted in balloting for the committee member.

Mr. Getty said candidates for the position were Mr. Martin and Edward Evans of Cumberland, a Baltimore and Ohio Railroad employe. Mr. Getty cast the deciding ballot in favor of Mr. Martin.

The chairman said later he "had the highest regard" for Mr. Evans, who was a candidate previously for the post on the GOP committee. However, Mr. Evans, didn't apply formally for the job this time, Mr. Getty said, and the chairman stated he felt that since the appointment of Ernest B. Treat put a Cumberland man in the group he felt this appointment should go to someone from the Barton, McCoole, Westernport, Cresaptown area.

Member Of Bar
John Mullen is a member of the Allegany County Bar Association. Since his return from military service about a year ago he has been practicing law in Westernport.

He is a son of Mrs. Hilda Mullen of Westernport and is married to the former Jean Orr of Lonaconing. He has been a member of the county bar for several years.

John Martin is employed by the West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company at Luke. He is a Bible class instructor at the Barton Methodist Church; is finance officer of Barton American Legion, Post 189; is worshipful master and secretary of Allegany Lodge 157, AF & AM; is worthy patron of Barton Chapter 37, Star Council JOLIAM; co-chairman of the United Fund drive in Barton; a member of the Scottish Rite Masons and a Shriner; and is a member of the Republican Club in Lonaconing.

The appointments of the GOP committee since June include a member of the Allegany County Board of Alcoholic Beverages License Commissioners; three members of the House of Delegates; three members of the committee itself; and one trial magistrate.

Orr Is Elected President Of County Board

The new president of the Board of Allegany County Commissioners is James Orr.

He was chosen yesterday at the first meeting attended by the new county commissioner, William A. Wilson of Midland.

Wilson, who succeeded William H. Lemmert, former board president and 11 years a county commissioner, held the deciding vote.

He asked the third county commissioner, C. N. Wilkinson if the latter was interested in the post.

But Wilkinson turned the presidency down, saying "probably later, not now."

The selection was made following Orr's suggestion that the board go into executive session and select a president. Orr was acting board president to open the meeting.

But Wilson objected, saying he would not be in favor of a closed meeting. Following his remarks, the selection was made in Orr's favor.

Wilson also made his initial remarks at his first board meeting by stating that he wanted a clear understanding that regardless of the motion or idea presented by either of his two fellow board members, he would vote for it on its merits.

"The people are anxious to have the board function in harmony, and I am for their wishes," he declared.

County Hi-Y Clubs Ready For Legislative Program

Clubs in the Allegany County Hi-Y are organizing for the Maryland Youth and Government program for 1958, Lawrence R. Dehn, program secretary of Central YMCA, said last night.

One of the main points on the clubs' agenda is to put William Sitter of the Allegany Hi-Y Club up for the governorship of the Model Legislature at Annapolis in April.

The initial meeting in December of each of the 16 member organizations of the County Hi-Y group will be utilized to prepare bills for legislation, title the bills, and to select candidates from each club for seven offices of government in the Model Legislature.

The groups also will select two delegates and several alternates to attend the various Youth and Government programs scheduled during the first four months of next year.

The county delegation will select candidates for offices of Governor, Speaker of the House, Senate Clerk, Senate Chaplain, House Clerk, President of the Senate and House Chaplain.

The county delegation also will select a delegation leader to head the group along with Mr. Dehn, who is advisor to the Hi-Y program.

After the legislative bills have been prepared and titled, candidates and delegates selected by each of the clubs, the information will be turned over to Mr. Dehn for the first Zone 4 meeting at Beall High School on January 19. Zone 4 comprises all Hi-Y clubs in Allegany and Garrett counties.

The Zone 4 delegation will hold a meeting on February 2 at Central YMCA and will meet again on February 16 with the County Hi-Y Council which is comprised of officers of the Hi-Y clubs.

On March 15 the pre-legislation meeting of the Youth and Government program will be held at College Park.

The Model Legislature will be a three-day affair at Annapolis on April 10, 11 and 12.

Fort Hill Seniors Stage 'My Friend Irma' Friday

The Senior Class of Fort Hill High School, in staging its annual class play, "My Friend Irma" on December 6 in the school auditorium, has set a precedent, according to Miss Jean Bowen, class advisor and director of the play.

Track Crews Start Work On Trestle

Bridge Abutment Half Completed

Western Maryland Railway crews have begun laying track on the temporary trestle which will carry trains over Wills Creek while a new bridge is being built during the flood control project.

Considerable work must be done, however, before the trestle can be placed into use and allow the Hazelwood Construction Company to begin work on the new span.

Progress is also being made toward the new Baltimore Street traffic bridge.

Rex E. Dexter, resident engineer for the Corps of Engineers on the $18,000,000 Cumberland-Ridgeley flood protection project, said the west abutment of the span is in and partly backfilled and that work on the east abutment is about half done.

He said the abutment should be completed in several weeks and that steel for the traffic bridge will be ready when needed.

Make Rapid Strides

During recent weeks, both the Hazelwood and E. J. Albrecht construction firms have been making rapid strides on concrete work in Wills Creek.

Except for paving the channel of the creek about 300 feet downstream of the Baltimore Street Bridge, Hazelwood crews have completed concrete work in the lower end of the creek project and are placing rip rap along the slope of the creek near Riverside Park.

Derrick stone — big boulders weighing up to 2½ tons—is being placed on the Potomac River side of the deflector vane to protect the curved wall from currents which surge against it during high water.

Above Baltimore Street, Hazelwood is making progress on paving the slopes on the east side of the stream.

Slope paving on the east side of the creek will probably be completed this week by the Albrecht firm, which has completed such work down to the Market Street Bridge.

Brick Work Stated

The Viaduct pumping station has been completed up to the operating floor and brick work on the superstructure will begin soon.

On the Section 2 Potomac River contract, Albrecht crews have nearly completed the encasement of piers of the main Western Maryland Bridge after channel dredging.

Most of the dredging work needed on the river job has been completed and Albrecht is placing rip rap on the Cumberland side of the channel near the B & O yards.

Fill is being placed in the C&O Canal area for tracks leading to the new B&O and Western Maryland interchange bridge. Steel for this span was delivered several weeks ago.

PE Appoints Three Men To District Posts

H. W. Price Will Retire In February

In anticipation of the forthcoming retirement of Henry W. Price, manager of The Potomac Edison Company's Cumberland District, PE President D. E. Stultz has announced a series of organization changes that will affect the managements of three Company districts.

Garland L. Johnston, district manager at Waynesboro, Pa., will move to Cumberland, replacing Mr. Price. Walter T. Kline, now manager of the Frostburg District, succeeds Mr. Johnston at Waynesboro. Edward L. Ewald, commercial manager in Cumberland, will succeed Mr. Kline as manager of the Frostburg District.

For many years he was active in the Waynesboro Community Chest and served on the executive committee for several campaigns. He is a member of the Presbyterian Church and of the Waynesboro Rotary Club.

Mr. Johnston recently purchased a new home at 1233 Braddock Road and will move there with his wife, Genevieve, and daughter, Judith, shortly after the first of the year. His daughter is a senior at Shippensburg State Teachers College in Pennsylvania.

Gets Frostburg Post

Mr. Ewald joined the company in 1931 as collector and meter reader at Piedmont. After serving in a similar capacity at Cumberland during 1934 and 1935, he became chief clerk of the Keyser District, which post he held until 1937, when he became assistant to the general merchandise manager at Hagerstown.

Following this assignment, he served successively as chief clerk in the Hagerstown District organization and as assistant to the commercial vice president. In 1948, he was promoted to his present position in Cumberland.
